Ville de Montréal

Montréal is a leader in sustainable development. It aims to become a low-carbon city by reducing greenhouse gas emissions by 80 percent by 2050 and is focused on providing equitable access to its services and facilities.

Montréal aspires to be exemplary and lead the way, integrating the principles of sustainable development into all of its activities, plans and policies, while encouraging organizations on its territory to do the same.

Valérie Plante, Mayor of Montréal, Canada, invites all ICLEI Members and partners to join the ICLEI World Congress in June 2018.

“ This Congress will offer exchanges on collaborative governance, resilience, the fight against climate change and much more ”

Congrès mondial ICLEI ICLEI World Congress 2018

19 au 22 juin • 19 - 22 June • Montréal, Canada

At the ICLEI World Congress 2018 in Montréal, local and regional governments, together with their strategic partners from around the world, will share ideas, successes and challenges in advancing sustainable urban development. Together they will steer the course of the global urban agenda and strengthen collective action on sustainability worldwide.

The ICLEI World Congress 2018 will offer plenty of opportunities for local and regional governments to showcase their work and engage with peers and partners. Attending local and regional governments will be able to network and arrange bilateral meetings with their peers, as well as private sector partners, by reserving time slots in the dedicated City Exchange space.

Reasons to participate

Researchers' Symposium

The Researchers' Symposium gathers leading research-practitioners and policymakers to explore opportunities and challenges when it comes to collaboration to shape policies that support sustainable urban development.

Urban Nature Forum

The ICLEI Cities Biodiversity Center makes sure that natural capital and ecosystem services are a core part of how we conceptualize and develop our cities. At the World Congress, the CBC and other key stakeholders will explore nature as a key tool for more sustainable urbanization.

Multi-stakeholder dialogue

The first day of the Congress is under the theme of Inspiration. This dialogue aims to break barriers of what is possible in terms of sustainable urban development and underline the necessity to shape policies that take into account the inputs of various stakeholders.

North America Day

The third day of the ICLEI World Congress 2018 will be dedicated to showcasing the commitment of the North American cities and regions towards climate action. A high level plenary and a series of leadership and implementers sessions will address the most pressing social and environmental sustainability challenges of the North American region at the local level.

Interactive roundtables

A number of roundtables will take place simultaneously hosted by ICLEI Members and partners sharing their experiences on innovative partnerships they have forged and fostered for delivering successful sustainable local action.
